CREATING IMPACTFUL AND SUSTAINABLE MICROFINANCE PROJECTS

Global extreme poverty is rising as the disruption of the COVID-19 pandemic compounds the forces of conflict and climate change, which were already slowing poverty reduction progress.

Extreme poverty, defined as living on less than $2.15 a day, affects 9.15% of the world's population. The COVID-19 pandemic is estimated to have pushed an additional 150 million people into extreme poverty.

Microfinance has built a solid track record as a critical tool in the fight against poverty. Over 500 million individuals have directly and indirectly benefited from microfinance programs. The access to even a small amount of credit has the potential to end the cycle of poverty by offering opportunities like business, job, and education. Microfinance promotes economic development, growth, and employment by supporting small businesses and micro-entrepreneurs. Apart from improving living standards of impoverished communities, the concept helps the poor to efficiently manage their finances, leverage economic opportunities, and manage risks.

WHAT IS MICROFINANCE?

Microfinance is a category of financial services targeted at individuals and small businesses who lack access to conventional banking and related services. Microfinance invests in people to create measurable and enduring economic improvement in their lives and communities. Microfinance projects provide access to capital, encourage self-sufficiency and entrepreneurship, empower women, and enable families to invest in enterprises, better nutrition, improved living conditions, and the health and education of their children.

Microfinance is a key element of The Rotary Foundation's Community Economic Development Area of Focus. Rotarians have successfully implemented sustainable microfinance programs in all parts of the world.
